Position Details

In this role, you will be responsible for the supervision, direction and control of land surveying services related to a variety of projects located in north east British Columbia.

Ideally, you are familiar with all aspects of oil field surveys. Critical skills include strong communication and organizational abilities with a customer focused approach to project management. This position has the potential to lead to a branch manager position within the company.

With the Labour Mobility arrangements in place, we encourage Land Surveyors of Alberta and Saskatchewan to view this as an opportunity to obtain a dual commission with the full support of Midwest Surveys' resources and diverse client base. We would also consider a Land Surveyor in Training nearing the end of their articling period for this position. An equity position in the company is a potential for this position. Occasional travel to the Fort St. John office will be a requirement for this position.
